TERRE DAUTE, IND. WEDNESDAY NOVEMBER 7, 1860

THE ELECTION.

Yesterday was a beautiful, bright sunshiny day, and our people went to the polls, camly, quietly and peaceably depos ited their votes. We have never seen so little excitement on election day. There was hardly any electioneering around the polls, each man having made up his mind days sgo how he would vote, and none seemed anxious to change that determination. There was too much at stake for perty excitement and individual effort .-The influence of no one man could have effected anything, and all appeared to be impressed with this idea. Thus quietly and properly has passed off the great political campaign of 1860 in Terre Hauteanother evidence that this people are capable of self-government.

This Township.

We give the returns, so far as heard from in this morning's issue. This township has done gloriously-increasing the major ity given for Col. Lane 154, and beating Douglas, Bell and Breckipridge all combined 126! The vote in the township is 74 less than in October, but the majorities are much larger. Terre Haute is henceforward a Republican city, and Harrison town-hip is entirely redeemed. Against all combinations, all fusions, all unions we triumphed by 136 majority. Where is your Little Giant now ?-ech

Gov. Chase in Kentucky.

Gov. Chase made a Republican speech in Covington, Kentucky, a few days ago. It was a bold and thorough Republican speech, in which the great doctrines of the party were clearly set forth. It is said the speech was listened to by a large audience-there was no disturbance and they did not mob the speaker. For this, all

They are profoundly ignorant as to what is Republicanism, and they seem desirous to remain in this bliss. ful state of misunderstanding. If they would invite our able speakers to visit that purpose, are ready at all times to sac echoes of Mr. Douglas' speeches made all them and expound to them the doctrines of our party, their prejudices would at once be removed. When they would learn Dixon's line, had the least desire to interfere with them or their slaves-that no Re to take from the South, or from a southern slaveholder one right given to it or him by the Constitution, they would, in our judgment, be much less irritable. The Repub licans only say to slaveholders, keep your negroes where you have them-keep them we want nothing to do with them. We only want to secure our vast public domain free from the biting, withering, enervating curse of human slavery. We desire this shall be done to protect the white men of the North from the influences of an institution that has crippled the energies of the white men of the South. We desire only this, we ask only this, we de mand only this and being in the majority

we will have this. Had the South, months ago, followed the example of the North, and invited Repub lican speakers to come among them and York Post says: explain the doctrines of Northern men, they would not to-day be battling against a doctrine not advocated by the Republicans. Yancey, Johnson, Stephens and Toombs, the most ultra of Southern fireeaters, have all been invited to Northern cities to speak-and they have spoken to large audiences. The South instead of inviting such men as Seward, Chase, Trum bull and Corwin to come among them and expound true Republicanism, have resorted to every means to drive them back. They have published to the world that these our great -peakers, would not be permitted to address Southern audiences. Is there any wonder that the Southern masses re-

The Trap Sprung.

Perhaps no editor in the State has been more abusive of Mr. Lincoln, because he said, while a member of Congress, that the war with Mexico was unnecessarily begun and prosecuted, than has our neighbor, Mr. Cookerly. He has been rampant all the time against Old Abe, because he ever said that the Democratic War with Mexico was unnecessary.

As this is the last day of the great canvass of 1860, and as we may never have so good an opportunity again, we propose to show what were the opinions of this same editor, in relation to this War, at the time the War was being prosecuted

CHICAGO NOV 1. 1860 Mr. Express .- I beg leave to say a few words about disunion. The Douglas organ of this city like the N. Y. Herald is filled with seasation articles setting forth the minent danger to the Union if Mr. Lincoln shall be elected by the people. An editorial in yesterdays Times and Herald, with the heading in full-faced capitals "Dan gers from Lincoln's election," leads off

"Every mail, every telegraph brings us more alarming accounts of the state of the Southern mind. The Southern people have generally despaired of the defeat of Lincoln for the Presidency.
